

TRUST ME IN CHALLENGING TIMES

April 5, 2020

The world is going through a very difficult time now. As I sit on My throne, I see what is happening and I knew it was coming. I would have you know it did not catch Me by surprise. I knew this was coming. You call it a pandemic; and I say unto you, that before the foundation of the world I had the answer.

The end to this thing is coming. Yet, there is much confusion in the world about why it's happening. I did not author this, but I do have the answer and the solution. The biggest problem that you face right now and have faced since the beginning of this – it's not the virus, it is not what this virus can do to the human body. The biggest problem is that people have not been calling out to Me the way they could. That is the biggest problem.

I say unto you, you are aware of what's happening, but do not let that awareness become the thing that captures your attention. You must stay focused on things above, where Christ is seated on the throne. You must divert your attention to My things and the things of My Word.

This is not the last time the world is going to face a calamity. You must learn to stay focused on Me. I knew this was coming and there's been great disappointment – disappointment in My church for not seeking Me the way that you could. Yes, many have, but the majority have not.

You should be seeking Me daily out of your relationship with Me and not waiting until a time of desperation sets in and feel you have no other choice. Your relationship with Me should be that which strengthens you and you seek Me consistently.

I say to you again, this is all coming to an end. I did not author it, but what I am going to do is work in the midst of it. I am going to do some things that some of you have not anticipated. Good things. I'm going to bring to light a lot of the problems and challenges that you've been facing in your country, the United States, and in other places in the world.

You can trust Me. You can trust My Word. But you cannot trust everything you hear from man. Stay focused on Me and I will lead you through this valley, says the Lord.
