

FACING NEW CHALLENGES 2021-1-13

You've heard so much about revival and pressing into revival and seeing revival. Along with revival comes a time of testing for My church. For you see, you're going to face a lot of things you had not thought you would face. You're going to face circumstances that are going to be very challenging for you. It's not that I am sending these things into your life, because it's not just you; it is the society in which you live.

But this will be a test for you: will you rise above all the turmoil and stay focused on Me? This is absolutely critical. Too many of My children have been severely distracted by the events that have taken place over the last six months and even over the last several years. It's drawn them away from true intimacy with Me. But I say to you, cast down the imaginations concerning what you're observing taking place and stay focused on Me.

Here Me now. Revival is far more critical than who gets elected to any office. You must stay focused on Me. I'll see you through everything, but you must stay focused on Me. Politicians have never been God. I am God and I share My Glory with none other. So stay focused on Me and you will see Me move in your life and in your society. Revival is at the door, says the Lord.
