

YIELDING FOR MORE OF GOD'S PRESENCE 210714

I've brought you to a place where I can begin training you how to truly receive from Me in a deeper level. The only reason that I have been able to bring you to this place is because of the degree of yieldedness that you have presented to Me. You're not totally yielded to Me, but you have been yielded enough that I can bring you to this place – lead you into this place. And I will be teaching you more and more how to surrender to Me, how to yield to Me, [and] how to be led by Me.

Very few of My children truly understand these principles. Far too often they govern My leadership by what they feel. And all too often, the way they feel led is not the way I am trying to lead. You must learn to depend upon who you are in Christ. You must learn to live by your new nature, My Spirit, My Life, within you.

You have learned much, but there is much more to learn about all of this. You have yielded to Me and yielded to Me little by little, so now you're at a place where I can begin teaching you more of what you need to hear and understand. This is so very critical for you. Yes, change is coming, but you must yield to that change. So I say to you tonight, you have made progress and if you will continue to yield to Me, you will make even more progress.

You do not understand the fulness of where it is I'm wanting to lead you. You call it an outpouring, you call it revival, you call it My presence – it's everything of who I am. So continue on this path. Learn how to accelerate your progress on this path. There is so much of Me that awaits you. And I look forward to moving in you as individuals, in your families, and in this congregation – not just those who are physically here, but also those who watching by way of the internet. So keep pressing in, keep being teachable, continue receiving from Me, continue yielding to Me, for you are headed a direction of great and wonderful things, says the Lord.
