

Worship and Learning to Receive (PD220522A – May 22, 2022)

The Lord says, you are learning to receive from Me. You're understanding more and more why praise and worship is so important. You're understanding how that, during these times of worship unto Me, you are able to receive – receive not just My presence, but receive answers, direction and more that what you need in your life I can give you.

You're learning to receive healing. You're learning to receive from Me everything that I promised. It has taken time, but this has been a learning process for you, and you are continuing to learn more and more how to receive from Me. You are learning more and more how not to be uncomfortable or bored during times of worship, including those times of silence before Me.

This is so very critically important because the more that you learn these things and participate in them is the more that I am able to do. Please understand you're on a path into greatness, My greatness, to know Me and to understand Me in ways you've never known or understood in the past. And again, as you have heard many times, the key to this is the praise and worship.

So be encouraged to know that you have made progress and as you continue to engage in this worship, in the times of praise, you will continue to make more progress. You will become more conditioned to My presence and to receiving from Me. Not only that, but you will also come to the place of understanding how to better flow with Me as I am moving in your services. So continue this. Continue conquering the flesh that doesn't want to do this at times. Win this victory continually and keep walking in the direction of the greatness of My glory.
