

The Training in Stillness (PD230503 – May 3, 2023)

God is saying, during these times of silence, I am training you to learn how to wait on Me, to learn how to hear Me, to learn how to receive My instructions, the revelation of My will for your life. These times of quietness do not need to be restricted to just here at the church when you gather together. You can have this at home as well.

Worship is what introduces My presence, and it's through worship even at home that you can enter into this place of quietness and stillness before Me. In fact, it's when you are away from here that you are able to spend more time with Me. For as you know, your time here is limited each service, each week. But you have far more time available when you're at home.

I encourage you this night to know that you can have this at home when you worship Me, and My presence will be very strong with you. I am asking you to please consider this, give heed to it and know that I will show up and I will fill the place where you are with My presence. You're learning how to move and how to flow with My Spirit, and this is all in preparation for a greater outpouring and revival.

So, take these things to heart. Believe what I am telling you and know, that yes indeed, I am preparing you for even more. You do not know yet how much more is coming, but believe Me, if you will continue on this path, you will experience a greater level of My presence and My glory, and you will rejoice in knowing that you were diligent to do this and what you experience with Me will exceed all your expectations.

Continue in these things and know that I look forward to these times of intimate fellowship with you, when I can minister to you, and strengthen you, and work in you to will and to do of My good pleasure.
