

GOD'S WORD STILL STANDS PD210704

July 4, 2021

When all is said and done, My Word will still stand. When the governments of this world have made their decisions that they believe are the right decisions, My Word will still stand. When your school boards make their decisions for what they want taught in their schools, My Word will still stand. You see, man can make many choices and many decisions, and man can live by whatever those decisions would dictate. But My Word will still stand. My Word will not change.

Those of you who are pressing deeper into Me, you're becoming more and more sensitive to the division between the mind of man and the mind of Christ. You're beginning to see things more clearly from My perspective than from the world's perspective. I say to you, it is imperative that you continue to press into Me, for great confusion is being released in the world. Even many of My children are being drawn into this confusion. However, this has been foretold. It was prophesied in My Word.

I say unto you, you absolutely must keep pressing into Me. Do not neglect times of coming together in My presence. Take seriously every time you come together, for My desire is to move in your midst in a very powerful way – to move in your midst to bring about change so that you become what I want, not what the world thinks.

Continue pressing into Me. Continue to seek Me. Continue to expect My presence when you worship Me. My Word still stands and I will always honor My Word and I will always move in accordance with My Word, says the Lord.
